Millennium Adds DeBauche Communication Services to its Geospatial Team

DeBauche's capabilities and engineers will substantially enhance Millennium Geospatial's fiber optic network services and industry leading customer service

Delavan, Wis. – November 13, 2023 – Millennium, a leading value-added distributor and service provider to the broadband infrastructure and related industries, today announced it has acquired and added to its Geospatial team DeBauche Communication Services (“DeBauche”), a broadband engineering and design services firm. The majority investment, which was made with the support of Millennium’s majority investment partner Carlson Private Capital Partners (“CPC”), will augment Millennium Geospatial’s engineering expertise and build on the companies’ longstanding working relationship together.

“Millennium has a well-established reputation for providing exceptional, dedicated resources that empower clients to design, finance and accelerate the construction of fiber optic networks,” said James Kyle, Millennium Founder and CEO. “By adding DeBauche to our Millennium Geospatial team, we have strengthened our comprehensive suite of telecommunications services bringing a broader and even more specialized service offering to our clients and the industry as a whole.”

DeBauche, which will maintain its office in Green Bay, Wis., has grown over the past 30 years into a leader in broadband engineering and related services. With a team of 16 skilled telecommunications engineers, DeBauche brings a track record of high-quality service and expertise in field and enterprise engineering.

“Millennium is the best new home for the business,” said Michele Cherney, former owner of DeBauche. “My colleagues are among the best and the brightest in the broadband engineering and design services industry, and I know they will continue to excel and deliver for our customers as part of Millennium. I look forward to watching our team continue to succeed well into the future.”

“DeBauche’s incredible talent base, engineering expertise and robust industry relationships make this such an exciting addition for Millennium,” said Andy Cantwell, Managing Partner at Carlson Private Capital. “We are thrilled to welcome DeBauche to the Millennium family and we look forward to watching them work together to achieve Millennium’s vision of becoming a one-stop provider of a comprehensive suite of services to networks of all sizes.”

Millennium is a national, value-added distributor and service provider, providing products and solutions to over 2,500 networks, contractors, DOTs, municipalities and utilities customers nationwide. In addition to industry-leading products, Millennium offers an extensive suite of services and capabilities to support the unique needs of each customer throughout every step of their network build.
